

JAKOŚ TO BĘDZIE

As Poles, it is in our blood to fight for the things that are important to us. Our ancestors endured multiple divisions of their country, world wars, and Soviet rule, but they never gave in to despair. They responded to life's uncertainties and misfortunes with hope and optimism. Poles have adopted a jakoś to będzie (pronounced ya-kosh toe ben-jay) approach to life - the meaning of which is: things will work out in the end. The best way to describe this tactic is letting go of things you cannot control, but acting on the things you can, without overthinking the consequences.

With that being said, we are well aware of the huge cost of the repair and renovation of our beloved church. The magnitude of such an undertaking would frighten the most courageous of hearts. But we are not like most people. We are descendants of warriors - those who refused to give up their homeland in the face of overwhelming odds - and though our congregation has through the years, become more diverse, Saint Stanislaus Kostka Church is, and always will be, our home.

We know that through the grace of God, and with help from the many who love Saint Stanislaus Kostka Church as much as we do, we will surpass our goal and restore our church to the splendor befitting the house of the King of Kings!

The information regarding "jakoś to będzie" was gathered from an article by Michele Debczak, dated September 8, 2020, and published in MENTAL FLOSS magazine .

TOWER REPAIR

The CRITICAL Issue

A significant error was made in 1960 when the church façade was tuck-pointed. An incorrect type of mortar was used which allowed moisture to seep through the masonry into the inner structural surfaces. Temperature fluctuations exacerbated the problems during seasonal freeze/thaw cycles causing the mortar to loosen and fall away, allowing more water and moisture seepage.

The photos above illustrate the current condition of the corners of the south tower as well as an example of the deterioration of some of the pillars. All pillars need replacement

The north tower damage is not as extensive but is in need of major repairs as well.

The PRICE Tag

We have had multiple assessments of the scope of the work necessary to repair both towers. We have also had multiple masonry contractors bid on the project. The average price for the crucial repairs of both towers and all pillars is $1,300,000. That is the critical portion of the renovation. That is our current focus.

While the contractors were compiling the information they needed to bid on the towers, we had them also assess the rest of the building façade and write bids for that portion of the project as well. The second phase of the exterior repair of our extraordinary church will include replacement of damaged face brick, repairs of defective lintels, tuckpointing, and sealing of the remainder of the building. The funds needed to complete the second phase of the repair is $1,200,000. Including a 10% contingency, completion of both phases will cost $2,750,000.

We would like to share a quote of Saint John Paul II that we have taken to heart during the planning of this campaign:

I plead with you -

Never, ever give up on hope,
never doubt,

never tire,

and never become discouraged.
